Perspective

Universal Masking in Hospitals in the Covid-19 Era

are scrambling to intensify their measures for protecting patients and health care workers from the virus. An increasing number of frontline providers are wondering whether this effort should include universal use of masks by all health care workers. Universal masking is already standard practice in Hong Kong, Singapore, and other parts of Asia and has recently been adopted by a handful of U.S. hospitals.

We know that wearing a mask outside health care facilities offers little, if any, protection from infection. Public health authorities define a significant exposure to Covid-19 as face-to-face contact within 6 feet with a patient with

Florida again: People over 85 (not 75, 85) make up 1 in 3 of #COVID deaths statewide - 5x as many deaths as everyone under 55.

Put another way: if you are over 85, you have a 1 in 300 chance of dying of #COVID in Florida in the last five months.

Under 55? 1 in 33,000.

This is why it's likely the excess mortality from #Covid will be so hard to spot over the course of a year or more.

Arizona: hospitalizations for Covid are now just over half the July 13 peak, positive tests have fallen similarly, and it looks like deaths are rolling too. A very hopeful sign for Texas and Florida, which just reported its lowest Tuesday-Saturday death figure in three weeks.

Odgovor korisnicima

You know why they don't need some of the beds?
You either get better or die quicker than anticipated.
Also, some deaths are people in hospice (no life saving) or care facilities who will never be brought to the hospital.
So the deaths are there, but not the hospitalizations.

Many IgM antibody tests rapidly reverted to negative after being positive. So point-in-time antibody testing almost certainly UNDERESTIMATES exposure (which may be why it is so hard to get over 20% antibody positives in broad population studies)...

The projection claims 718 ICU beds available. The data says -3700 currently in ICU. Haven't heard of some massive shortage of ICU beds...what's up with the ICU beds available number in the model?

Hospitals furloughing staff as well. My entire state is on stay-at-home for less than 400 cases, 60 hospitalized and 3 deaths. Unfkingbelievable.

Dara @daratancredi · 3. huhtik.
Vastauksena käyttäjälle ja
You know why they don't need some of the beds?
You either get better or die quicker than anticipated.
Also, some deaths are people in hospice (no life saving) or care facilities who will never be brought to the hospital.
So the deaths are there, but not the hospitalizations.

Arizona: hospitalizations for Covid are now just over half the July 13 peak, positive tests have fallen similarly, and it looks like deaths are rolling too. A very hopeful sign for Texas and Florida, which just reported its lowest Tuesday-Saturday death figure in three weeks.

Hospitals are scrambling to intensify their measures for protecting patients and health care workers from the virus. An increasing number of frontline providers are wondering whether this effort should include universal use of masks by all health care workers. Universal masking is already standard practice in Hong Kong, Singapore, and other parts of Asia and has recently been adopted by a handful of U.S. hospitals.

We know that wearing a mask outside health care facilities offers little, if any, protection from infection. Public health authorities define a significant exposure to Covid-19 as face-to-face contact within 6 feet with a patient with symptomatic Covid-19 that is sustained for a

Then why would Biden walk away from a position he took under a month ago?

You either get better or die quicker than anticipated.
Also, some deaths are people in hospice (no life saving) or care facilities who will never be brought to the hospital.
So the deaths are there, but not the hospitalizations.

So I'm watching a few minutes of television - a sin I've avoided the last month, been a bit busy reporting, amassing data - and I am struck by yet another reason we need to stay grounded in reality here, need to remind ourselves these lockdowns must end as soon as possible...

You know why they don't need some of the beds?
You either get better or die quicker than anticipated.
Also, some deaths are people in hospice (no life saving) or care facilities who will never be brought to the hospital.
So the deaths are there, but not the hospitalizations.

Meanwhile, in Houston: fewest new hospitalizations in almost a month, total hospitalizations down 9% week-over-week, discharges up 16%. ALL THE HOSPITALS ARE (so not) FULL, amirite, @charlesornstein? Don't worry, there's no penalty for shouting fire in a crowded city. You do you!

Florida again: People over 85 (not 75, 85) make up 1 in 3 of #COVID deaths statewide - 5x as many deaths as everyone under 55.

Put another way: if you are over 85, you have a 1 in 300 chance of dying of #COVID in Florida in the last five months.

Under 55? 1 in 33,000.

BTW: Per [illegible], people 85 and over have about a 1 in 7 chance of dying annually from all causes.

This is why it's likely the excess mortality from [illegible] will be so hard to spot over the course of a year or more.

We don't need fantasies of a pill that will save us from the apocalypse; we need a calm explanation of the non-apocalyptic realities here, how we're managing them, and how if we've learned anything in the last four months it's that we CAN and WILL handle this.

1/ The question of how many excess deaths the US has had this year turns out to be tricky (no surprise) - and to point toward an answer that should make us very worried about the long-term effects of lockdowns.

Nice the @cdcgov is making it official but nothing new here - the serology tests have all said the same thing since April. IFR is far lower than case fatality ratio indicates.

Just wait until they hear about T-cells and herd immunity in Atlanta! It'll blow their minds.

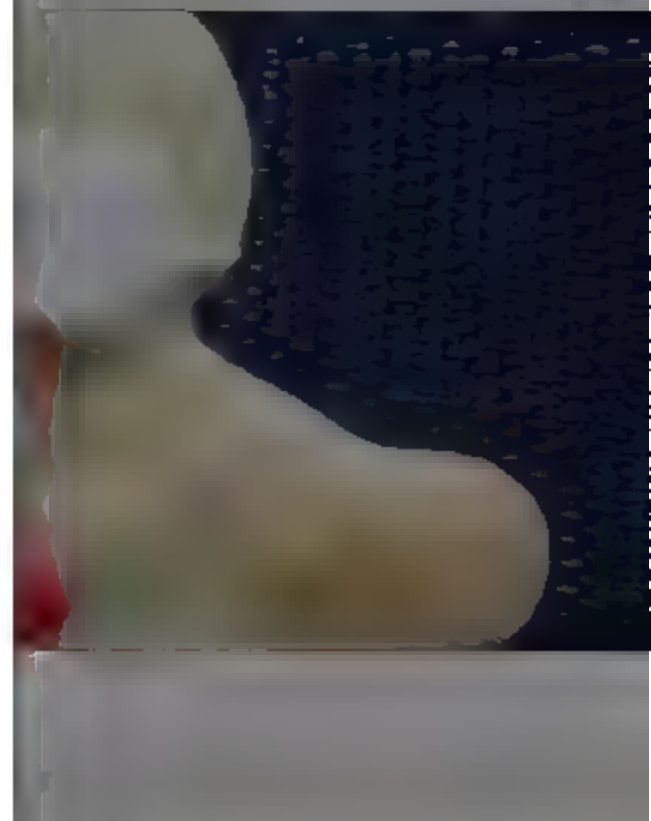
Hi Alex,

I saw your tweet regarding the 39 year old woman who died from a blood clot in her lung and who tested negative for COVID 19. I am concerned because my 28 year old daughter was in the ER this past week with a blood clot in her lung. She also tested negative for COVID 19 and has been inactive due to working from home in Indiana. She had no history of blood clots and was active (running) prior to the stay at home orders.
I wouldn't be surprised to hear of this occurring with others as well. I wonder if doctors are even aware of these occurrences.



Thanks for all you are doing!

Remember yesterday, when I published an email asking about possible double-counting of cases in Arizona? And then the state said no, it wasn't double-counting.

Must just be coincidence that the number of #Covid hospitalizations fell 300 and ventilator use plunged 25% overnight.

Universal Masking in Hospitals in the Covid-19 Era

Article

Hospitals are scrambling to intensify their measures for protecting patients and health care workers from the virus. An increasing number of frontline providers are wondering whether this effort should include universal use of masks by all health care workers. Universal masking is already standard practice in Hong Kong, Singapore, and other parts of Asia and has recently been adopted by a handful of U.S. hospitals.

We know that wearing a mask outside health care facilities offers little, if any, protection from infection. Public health authorities define a significant exposure to Covid-19 as face-to-face contact within 6 feet with a patient with symptomatic Covid-19 that is sustained for a

Florida again: People over 85 (not 75, 85) make up 1 in 3 of #COVID deaths statewide - 5x as many deaths as everyone under 55.

Put another way: if you are over 85, you have a 1 in 300 chance of dying of #COVID in Florida in the last five months.

Under 55? 1 in 33,000.

BTW: Per [redacted], people 85 and over have about a 1 in 7 chance of dying annually from all causes.

This is why it's likely the excess mortality from [redacted] will be so hard to spot over the course of a year or more.

You know why they don't need some of the beds?
You either get better or die quicker than anticipated.
Also, some deaths are people in hospice (no life saving) or care facilities who will never be brought to the hospital.
So the deaths are there, but not the hospitalizations.

Many IgM antibody tests rapidly reverted to negative after being positive. So point-in-time antibody testing almost certainly UNDERESTIMATES exposure (which may be why it is so hard to get over 20% antibody positives in broad population studies)...

1/ INCREDIBLE STUDY:

615 adults in Tokyo were prospectively recruited to take Sars-Cov-2 antibody tests.

When the study began 6% had antibodies, indicating exposure.

By mid-summer 47% did. Half the population.

Not one person was hospitalized or died...

Many IgM antibody tests rapidly reverted to negative after being positive. So point-in-time antibody testing almost certainly UNDERESTIMATES exposure (which may be why it is so hard to get over 20% antibody positives in broad population studies)...

Thanks to the reader who pointed out this April 1 article touching on the uselessness of masks outside hospitals - it ran in a third-rate medical journal called @nejm - nejm.org/doi/full/10.10 ...

Universal Masking in Hospitals in the Covid-19 Era

Article

Are scrambling to intensify their measures for protecting patients and health care workers from the virus. An increasing number of frontline providers are wondering whether this effort should include universal use of masks by all health care workers. Universal masking is already standard practice in Hong Kong, Singapore, and other parts of Asia and has recently been adopted by a handful of U.S. hospitals.

We know that wearing a mask outside health care facilities offers little, if any, protection from infection. Public health authorities define a significant exposure to Covid-19 as face-to-face contact within 6 feet with a patient with

Just wait until they hear about T-cells and herd immunity in Atlanta! It'll blow their minds.

@JohnNosta John Nosta
Perhaps "unnerving" with respect to morbidity and long-term consequences. But the implications for the case fatality rate is to the contrary--shifting it potentially an order of magnitude lower. #COVID19 #coronavirus twitter.com/rickberke/stat…

1/ Please, Kadhim, show me where the report says fewer than 20,000 people might die with weeks instead of 18 months of “suppression”? The entire point of the report was that short-term measures wouldn’t work, which is exactly why it terrified people so much.

2/ In fact, the report says explicitly that “the initial duration of measures... will be several months.”

is therefore population-wide social distancing combined with home isolation of cases and school and university closure.

To avoid a rebound in transmission, these policies will need to be maintained until large stocks of vaccine are available to immunise the population – which could be 18 months or more. Adaptive hospital surveillance-based triggers for switching on and off population-wide social distancing and school closure offer greater robustness to uncertainty than fixed duration interventions and can be adapted for regional use (e.g. at the state level in the US). Given local epidemics are not perfectly synchronised, local policies are also more efficient and can achieve comparable levels of suppression to national policies while being in force for a slightly smaller proportion of the time. However, we estimate that for a national GIP policy, social distancing would need to be in force for at least 2/3 of the time (for $R_0 = 2.4$, see Table 4) until a vaccine was available.

However, there are very large uncertainties around the transmission of this virus, the likely

So, in other words chances are good of us all dying in the next few weeks unless somehow the government rescues us by imposing strict tyrranical laws under threat of use of force and imprisonment?

So the projections on the left were wrong but the hospitals are still out of total beds and ICU beds? Am I reading this correctly?

You are not. Hospitals have added beds and ICU beds, which is why the overflow is ~empty.

The projection claims 718 ICU beds available. The data says ~3700 currently in ICU. Haven't heard of some massive shortage of ICU beds...what's up with the ICU beds available number in the model?

Hospitals furloughing staff as well. My entire state is on stay-at-home for less than 400 cases, 60 hospitalized and 3 deaths. Unfkingbelievable.

Dara @darafancredi · 3 اپریل

You know why they don't need some of the beds?
You either get better or die quicker than anticipated.
Also, some deaths are people in hospice (no life saving) or care facilities who will never be brought to the hospital.
So the deaths are there, but not the hospitalizations.

Nice the @cdcgov is making it official but nothing new here - the serology tests have all said the same thing since April. IFR is far lower than case fatality ratio indicates.

Just wait until they hear about T-cells and herd immunity in Atlanta! It'll blow their minds.

@JohnNosta John Nosta
Perhaps "unnerving" with respect to morbidity and long-term consequences. But the implications for the case fatality rate is to the contrary--shifting it potentially an order of magnitude lower. #COVID19 #coronavirus twitter.com/rickberke/stat…

Thanks to the reader who pointed out this April 1 article touching on the uselessness of masks outside hospitals - it ran in a third-rate medical journal called @nejm - nejm.org/doi/full/10.10 ...

Universal Masking in Hospitals in the Covid-19 Era

Article

As hospitals are scrambling to intensify their measures for protecting patients and health care workers from the virus, an increasing number of frontline providers are wondering whether this effort should include universal use of masks by all health care workers. Universal masking is already standard practice in Hong Kong, Singapore, and other parts of Asia and has recently been adopted by a handful of U.S. hospitals.

We know that wearing a mask outside health care facilities offers little, if any, protection from infection. Public health authorities define a significant exposure to Covid-19 as face-to-face contact within 6 feet with a patient with symptomatic Covid-19 that is sustained for a

Arizona: hospitalizations for Covid are now just over half the July 13 peak, positive tests have fallen similarly, and it looks like deaths are rolling too. A very hopeful sign for Texas and Florida, which just reported its lowest Tuesday-Saturday death figure in three weeks.

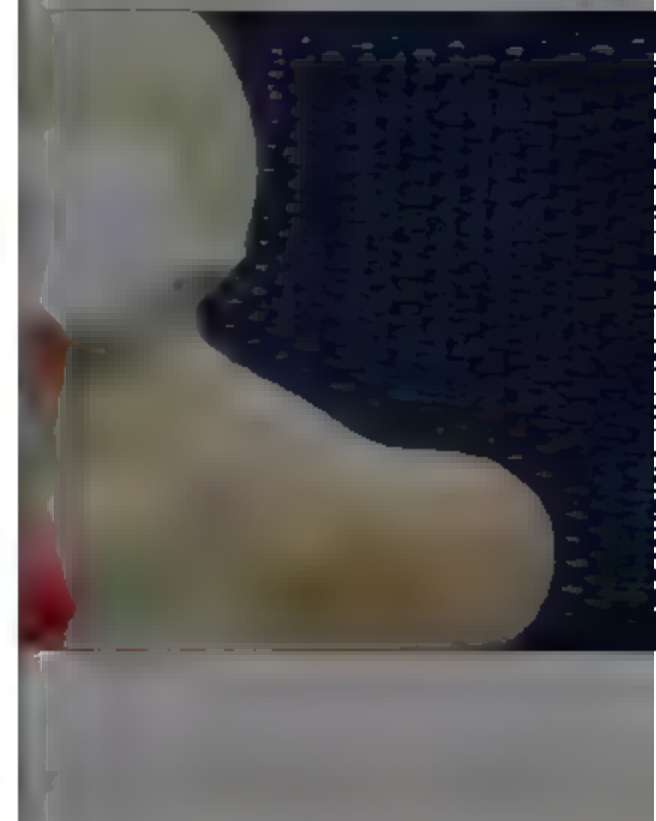
Hi Alex,

I saw your tweet regarding the 39 year old woman who died from a blood clot in her lung and who tested negative for COVID 19. I am concerned because my 28 year old daughter was in the ER this past week with a blood clot in her lung. She also tested negative for COVID 19 and has been inactive due to working from home in Indiana. She had no history of blood clots and was active (running) prior to the stay at home orders.
I wouldn't be surprised to hear of this occurring with others as well. I wonder if doctors are even aware of these occurrences.



Thanks for all you are doing!

While I agree with you in all of this, HCQ is not a fantasy. It's a cheap drug that is safe and has been around for over 60 years. Say it doesn't work, fine. But big pharma leading the charge to call it DANGEROUS, doesn't give you pause? Why would they do that?

Article

Hospitals are scrambling to intensify their measures for protecting patients and health care workers from the virus. An increasing number of frontline providers are wondering whether this effort should include universal use of masks by all health care workers. Universal masking is already standard practice in Hong Kong, Singapore, and other parts of Asia and has recently been adopted by a handful of U.S. hospitals.

We know that wearing a mask outside health care facilities offers little, if any, protection from infection. Public health authorities define a significant exposure to Covid-19 as face-to-face contact within 6 feet with a patient with symptomatic Covid-19 that is sustained for a

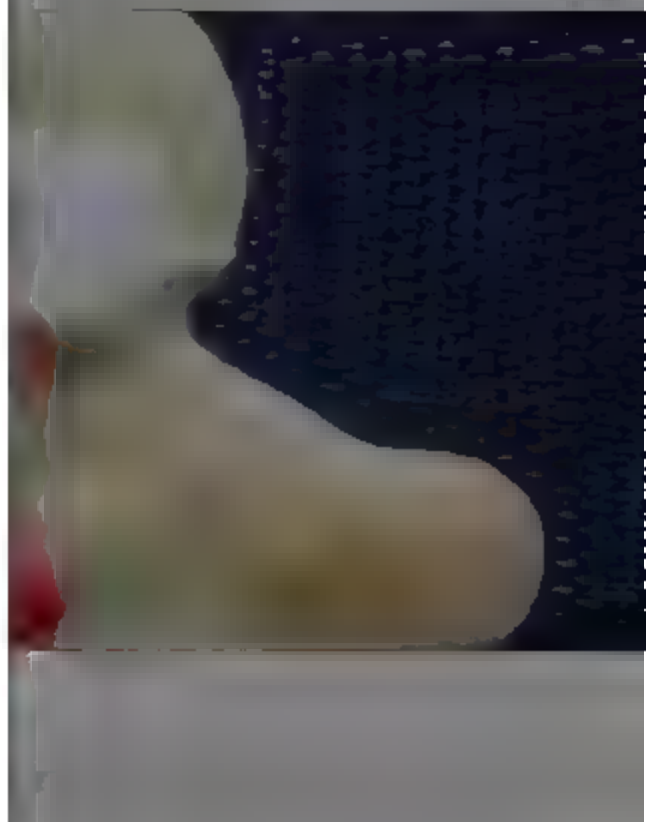
Hi Alex,

I saw your tweet regarding the 39 year old woman who died from a blood clot in her lung and who tested negative for COVID 19. I am concerned because my 28 year old daughter was in the ER this past week with a blood clot in her lung. She also tested negative for COVID 19 and has been inactive due to working from home in Indiana. She had no history of blood clots and was active (running) prior to the stay at home orders.
I wouldn't be surprised to hear of this occurring with others as well. I wonder if doctors are even aware of these occurrences.



Thanks for all you are doing!

Remember yesterday, when I published an email asking about possible double-counting of cases in Arizona? And then the state said no, it wasn't double-counting.

Must just be coincidence that the number of #Covid hospitalizations fell 300 and ventilator use plunged 25% overnight.

Many IgM antibody tests rapidly reverted to negative after being positive. So point-in-time antibody testing almost certainly UNDERESTIMATES exposure (which may be why it is so hard to get over 20% antibody positives in broad population studies)...

Florida again: People over 85 (not 75, 85) make up 1 in 3 of #COVID deaths statewide - 5x as many deaths as everyone under 55.

Put another way: if you are over 85, you have a 1 in 300 chance of dying of #COVID in Florida in the last five months.

Under 55? 1 in 33,000.

BTW: Per [redacted], people 85 and over have about a 1 in 7 chance of dying annually from all causes.

This is why it's likely the excess mortality from [redacted] will be so hard to spot over the course of a year or more.

Arizona: hospitalizations for Covid are now just over half the July 13 peak, positive tests have fallen similarly, and it looks like deaths are rolling too. A very hopeful sign for Texas and Florida, which just reported its lowest Tuesday-Saturday death figure in three weeks.

Are scrambling to intensify their measures for protecting patients and health care workers from the virus. An increasing number of frontline providers are wondering whether this effort should include universal use of masks by all health care workers. Universal masking is already standard practice in Hong Kong, Singapore, and other parts of Asia and has recently been adopted by a handful of U.S. hospitals.

We know that wearing a mask outside health care facilities offers little, if any, protection from infection. Public health authorities define a significant exposure to Covid-19 as face-to-face contact within 6 feet with a patient with

You either get better or die quicker than anticipated.
Also, some deaths are people in hospice (no life saving) or care facilities who will never be brought to the hospital.
So the deaths are there, but not the hospitalizations.

Hi Alex,

I saw your tweet regarding the 39 year old woman who died from a blood clot in her lung and who tested negative for COVID 19. I am concerned because my 28 year old daughter was in the ER this past week with a blood clot in her lung. She also tested negative for COVID 19 and has been inactive due to working from home in Indiana. She had no history of blood clots and was active (running) prior to the stay at home orders.
I wouldn't be surprised to hear of this occurring with others as well. I wonder if doctors are even aware of these occurrences.

Thanks for all you are doing!

Hospitals are scrambling to intensify their measures for protecting patients and health care workers from the virus. An increasing number of frontline providers are wondering whether this effort should include universal use of masks by all health care workers. Universal masking is already standard practice in Hong Kong, Singapore, and other parts of Asia and has recently been adopted by a handful of U.S. hospitals.

We know that wearing a mask outside health care facilities offers little, if any, protection from infection. Public health authorities define a significant exposure to Covid-19 as face-to-face contact within 6 feet with a patient with symptomatic Covid-19 that is sustained for a

Remember yesterday, when I published an email asking about possible double-counting of cases in Arizona? And then the state said no, it wasn't double-counting.

Must just be coincidence that the number of #Covid hospitalizations fell 300 and ventilator use plunged 25% overnight.

Many IgM antibody tests rapidly reverted to negative after being positive. So point-in-time antibody testing almost certainly UNDERESTIMATES exposure (which may be why it is so hard to get over 20% antibody positives in broad population studies)...

1/ Please, Kadhim, show me where the report says fewer than 20,000 people might die with weeks instead of 18 months of “suppression”? The entire point of the report was that short-term measures wouldn’t work, which is exactly why it terrified people so much.

is therefore population-wide social distancing combined with home isolation of cases and school and university closure.

To avoid a rebound in transmission, these policies will need to be maintained until large stocks of vaccine are available to immunise the population – which could be 18 months or more. Adaptive hospital surveillance-based triggers for switching on and off population-wide social distancing and school closure offer greater robustness to uncertainty than fixed duration interventions and can be adapted for regional use (e.g. at the state level in the US). Given local epidemics are not perfectly synchronised, local policies are also more efficient and can achieve comparable levels of suppression to national policies while being in force for a slightly smaller proportion of the time. However, we estimate that for a national QI policy, social distancing would need to be in force for at least 2/3 of the time (for $R_0 = 2.4$, see Table 4) until a vaccine was available.

However, there are very large uncertainties around the transmission of this virus, the likely

Meanwhile, in Houston: fewest new hospitalizations in almost a month, total hospitalizations down 9% week-over-week, discharges up 16%. ALL THE HOSPITALS ARE (so not) FULL, amirite, @charlesornstein? Don't worry, there's no penalty for shouting fire in a crowded city. You do you!

Florida again: People over 85 (not 75, 85) make up 1 in 3 of #COVID deaths statewide - 5x as many deaths as everyone under 55.

Put another way: if you are over 85, you have a 1 in 300 chance of dying of #COVID in Florida in the last five months.

Article

Hospitals are scrambling to intensify their measures for protecting patients and health care workers from the virus. An increasing number of frontline providers are wondering whether this effort should include universal use of masks by all health care workers. Universal masking is already standard practice in Hong Kong, Singapore, and other parts of Asia and has recently been adopted by a handful of U.S. hospitals.

We know that wearing a mask outside health care facilities offers little, if any, protection from infection. Public health authorities define a significant exposure to Covid-19 as face-to-face contact within 6 feet with a patient with symptomatic Covid-19 that is sustained for a

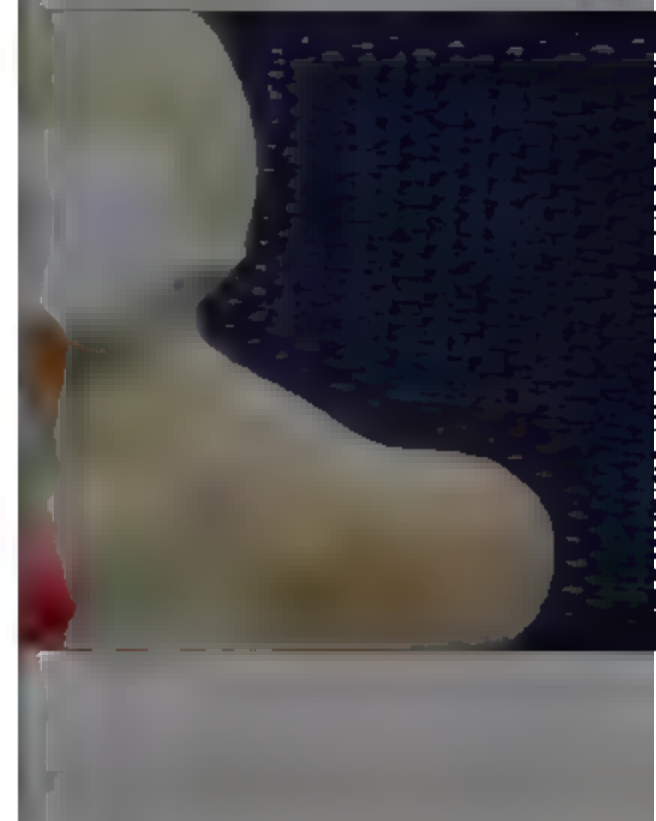
Hi Alex,



I saw your tweet regarding the 39 year old woman who died from a blood clot in her lung and who tested negative for COVID 19. I am concerned because my 28 year old daughter was in the ER this past week with a blood clot in her lung. She also tested negative for COVID 19 and has been inactive due to working from home in Indiana. She had no history of blood clots and was active (running) prior to the stay at home orders.
I wouldn't be surprised to hear of this occurring with others as well. I wonder if doctors are even aware of these occurrences.

Thanks for all you are doing!

Remember yesterday, when I published an email asking about possible double-counting of cases in Arizona? And then the state said no, it wasn't double-counting.

Must just be coincidence that the number of #Covid hospitalizations fell 300 and ventilator use plunged 25% overnight.

2/ BUT WAIT THERE'S MORE:

Many IgM antibody tests rapidly reverted to negative after being positive. So point-in-time antibody testing almost certainly UNDERESTIMATES exposure (which may be why it is so hard to get over 20% antibody positives in broad population studies)...

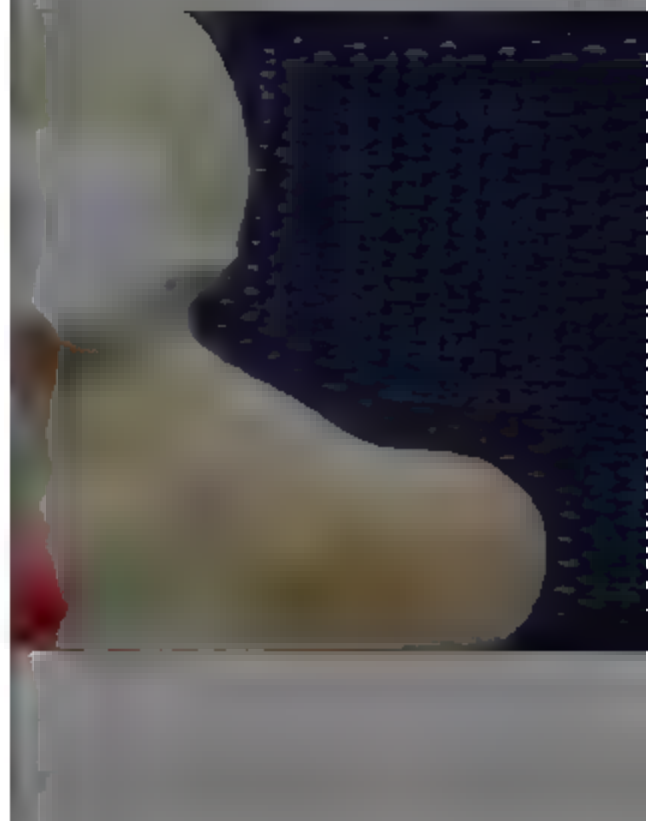
Hi Alex,

I saw your tweet regarding the 39 year old woman who died from a blood clot in her lung and who tested negative for COVID 19. I am concerned because my 28 year old daughter was in the ER this past week with a blood clot in her lung. She also tested negative for COVID 19 and has been inactive due to working from home in Indiana. She had no history of blood clots and was active (running) prior to the stay at home orders.
I wouldn't be surprised to hear of this occurring with others as well. I wonder if doctors are even aware of these occurrences.



Thanks for all you are doing!

Florida again: People over 85 (not 75, 85) make up 1 in 3 of #COVID deaths statewide - 5x as many deaths as everyone under 55.

Put another way: if you are over 85, you have a 1 in 300 chance of dying of #COVID in Florida in the last five months.

Under 55? 1 in 33,000.

Hospitals furloughing staff as well. My entire state is on stay-at-home for less than 400 cases, 60 hospitalized and 3 deaths. Unfkingbelievable.

You know why they don't need some of the beds?
You either get better or die quicker than anticipated.
Also, some deaths are people in hospice (no life saving) or care facilities who will never be brought to the hospital.
So the deaths are there, but not the hospitalizations.

Great news out of Georgia! This is from Emory, the most important hospital in Atlanta. Looks like the spike is over there too. Btw: it happened almost two months after Georgia ended its lockdown. See the connection? Me neither.

Universal Masking in Hospitals in the Covid-19 Era

Article

Are scrambling to intensify their measures for protecting patients and health care workers from the virus. An increasing number of frontline providers are wondering whether this effort should include universal use of masks by all health care workers. Universal masking is already standard practice in Hong Kong, Singapore, and other parts of Asia and has recently been adopted by a handful of U.S. hospitals.

We know that wearing a mask outside health care facilities offers little, if any, protection from infection. Public health authorities define a significant exposure to Covid-19 as face-to-face contact within 6 feet with a patient with Arizona: hospitalizations for Covid are now just over half the July 13 peak, positive tests have fallen similarly, and it looks like deaths are rolling too. A very hopeful sign for Texas and Florida, which just reported its lowest Tuesday-Saturday death figure in three weeks.

Hospitals furloughing staff as well. My entire state is on stay-at-home for less than 400 cases, 60 hospitalized and 3 deaths. Unfkingbelievable.

Dara @daratancredi · 3. apr.
Svarer
You know why they don't need some of the beds?
You either get better or die quicker than anticipated.
Also, some deaths are people in hospice (no life saving) or care facilities who will never be brought to the hospital.
So the deaths are there, but not the hospitalizations.

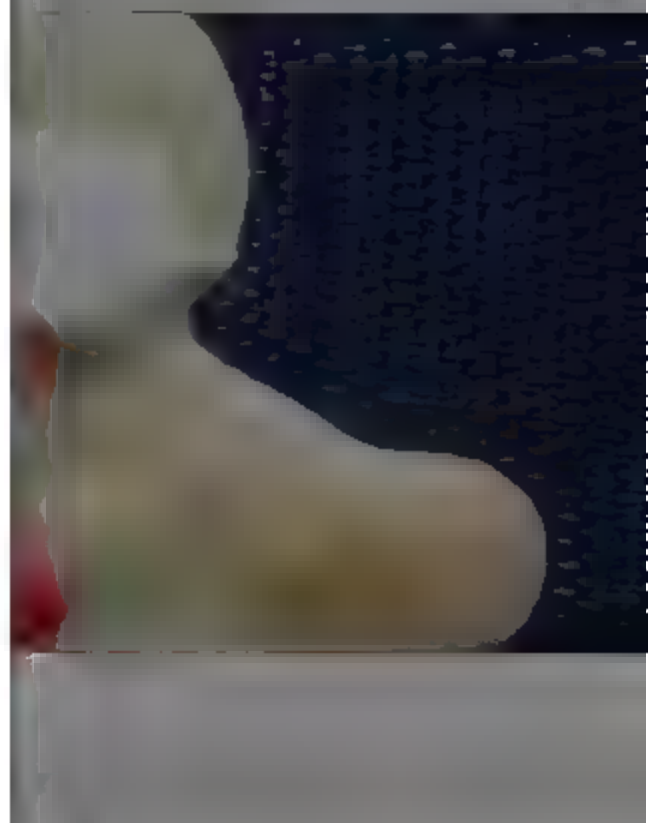
Hi Alex,

I saw your tweet regarding the 39 year old woman who died from a blood clot in her lung and who tested negative for COVID 19. I am concerned because my 28 year old daughter was in the ER this past week with a blood clot in her lung. She also tested negative for COVID 19 and has been inactive due to working from home in Indiana. She had no history of blood clots and was active (running) prior to the stay at home orders.
I wouldn't be surprised to hear of this occurring with others as well. I wonder if doctors are even aware of these occurrences.



Thanks for all you are doing!

While I agree with you in all of this, HCQ is not a fantasy.  It's a cheap drug that is safe and has been around for over 60 years. Say it doesn't work, fine. But big pharma leading the charge to call it DANGEROUS, doesn't give you pause? Why would they do that?

Article

Hospitals are scrambling to intensify their measures for protecting patients and health care workers from the virus. An increasing number of frontline providers are wondering whether this effort should include universal use of masks by all health care workers. Universal masking is already standard practice in Hong Kong, Singapore, and other parts of Asia and has recently been adopted by a handful of U.S. hospitals.

We know that wearing a mask outside health care facilities offers little, if any, protection from infection. Public health authorities define a significant exposure to Covid-19 as face-to-face contact within 6 feet with a patient with symptomatic Covid-19 that is sustained for a Nice the @cdcgov is making it official but nothing new here - the serology tests have all said the same thing since April. IFR is far lower than case fatality ratio indicates.

Just wait until they hear about T-cells and herd immunity in Atlanta! It'll blow their minds.

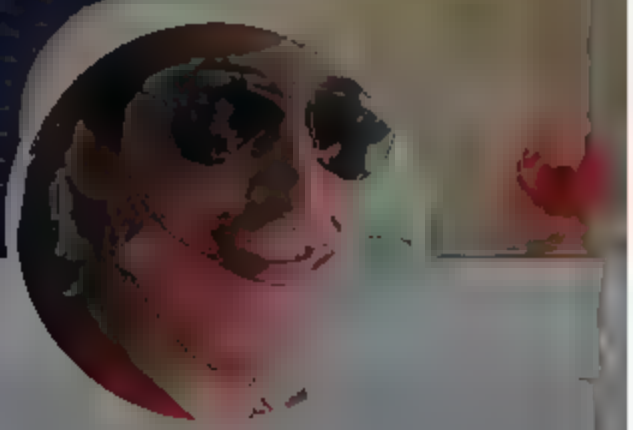
Remember yesterday, when I published an email asking about possible double-counting of cases in Arizona? And then the state said no, it wasn't double-counting.



Must just be coincidence that the number of #Covid hospitalizations fell 300 and ventilator use plunged 25% overnight.

NONE OF THIS IS NORMAL. None of this should be viewed as anything but the ultimate temporary stopgap, to be undone as soon as possible. The burden is on those who would lock us down, not the other way around. Please don't let anyone convince you otherwise.

Another pulmonary embolism case here - this of a 28-year-old woman (active before the lockdowns). Fortunately, she went to the ER and survived.

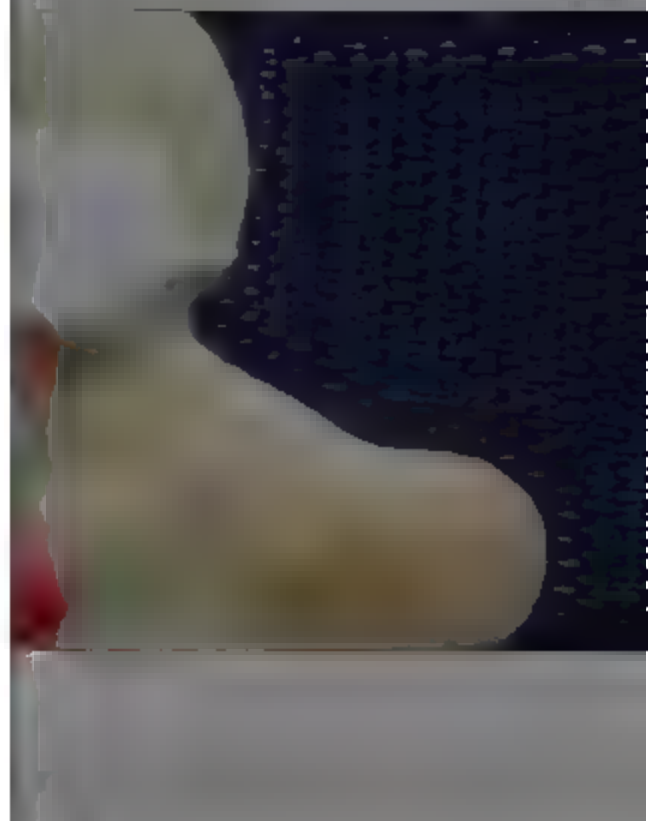
Hi Alex,

I saw your tweet regarding the 39 year old woman who died from a blood clot in her lung and who tested negative for COVID 19. I am concerned because my 28 year old daughter was in the ER this past week with a blood clot in her lung. She also tested negative for COVID 19 and has been inactive due to working from home in Indiana. She had no history of blood clots and was active (running) prior to the stay at home orders.
I wouldn't be surprised to hear of this occurring with others as well. I wonder if doctors are even aware of these occurrences.



Thanks for all you are doing!

Remember yesterday, when I published an email asking about possible double-counting of cases in Arizona? And then the state said no, it wasn't double-counting.

Must just be coincidence that the number of #Covid hospitalizations fell 300 and ventilator use plunged 25% overnight.

Two special Congressional elections: Republicans won in Wisconsin by 15% and are - shockingly - up 12% in California in what was supposed to be a toss-up.

But Democrats are the party of lockdowns, and voters love lockdowns, amirite?

This. Is. Incredible. @nytimes surveyed 500 epidemiologists. 35% of them said they were NOT currently comfortable "bring(ing) in the mail without precautions." 70% won't send their kids to school.

In other news, 35% of epidemiologists need to be fired now, and 70% by this fall.

Now do masks.

Btw: it was obvious by mid-April to those of us paying attention that the outdoor restrictions were nonsense. The data developed very rapidly.

Fuck you, you're taking this thing, like it or not, on our schedule and with our rules, and by the way nothing's going to change after you do.

The rule "Never attribute to malice that which can be explained by stupidity" should probably be stricken from the record. It's 100% malice.

It will backfire when people realize you have overstated the risks. In fact it already has for many people under 50. Doubling down is the ultimate losing strategy, and if public health types hope to convince people to take vaccines, it's particularly foolish.

Still, the euromomo and CDC mortality data for November will be well worth scrutinizing.

Good morning. @fairfieldU - 6,000 students - is going to require random #SARSCoV2 testing for students, including some who live off-campus. Does HIPAA even allow this invasion of privacy? Imagine if they tried this for STis (which are probably more dangerous in this age range).

Dear Students:

As Fairfield University plans to Bring its Stags Home for the fall 2020 semester, a safe return to campus life is our most important priority. We want to make sure our community members have all the information they need to maintain the vibrancy of our campus life but do so as safety as possible.

Staying Safe: In order to keep our community safe, there will be several new requirements and expectations within our community.

People cast votes for lots of reasons. But I will say: if you want the pandemic to go on forever, Joe Biden's your guy.

It's obvious now: the response to the pandemic IS the pandemic. We can be Sweden and get on with life, or Australia and pretend it's an emergency. Your call.

We want to make sure our community members have all the information they need to maintain the vibrancy of our campus life but do so as safety as possible.

Staying Safe: In order to keep our community safe, there will be several new requirements and expectations within our community.

- Testing and Contact Tracing. There will be statu
required COVID-19 testing of all residential students to their return and select off campus populations. There will also be random weekly testing of up to 10% of the residential students and select off campus populations throughout the semester. Specific details regarding testing will be community members. Masks must be worn at all times in public, including classrooms, when around other people.
Individuals without masks will be asked to leave classes or dining halls, etc. Once a community member arrives at private space – a residence hall bedroom, a private office, or while eating – masks may be removed

Campus Preparations:

Fairfield University's top-tier department is reviewing all offices, classrooms, housing spaces, dining facilities, and multi-purpose spaces throughout campus to determine the physical adjustments necessary to ensure all state mandated social distancing expectations. We will be engaging in more frequent and thorough cleaning protocols, paying particular attention to high-touch areas
such as door handles

With the social distancing that has been in place less than a month, over 30,000 people have died.

Követés

Good morning. @fairfieldU - 6,000 students - is going to require random #SARSCoV2 testing for students, including some who live off-campus. Does HIPAA even allow this invasion of privacy? Imagine if they tried this for STis (which are probably more dangerous in this age range).

Dear Students:

As Fairfield University plans to Bring its Stags Home for the fall 2020 semester, a safe return to campus life is our most important priority. We want to make sure our community members have all the information they need to maintain the vibrancy of our campus life but do so as safety as possible.

Staying Safe: In order to keep our community safe, there will be several new requirements and expectations within our community.

Fun fact from the @cdcgpv surveillance data: of 4,000 #COVID hospitalizations for which they provide detailed age data, 29 were in people under 18. That's not deaths or ICU visits - that's hospitalizations. The closing of the schools is nearly criminal at this point.

where and how SARS-CoV-2 is transmitted. Methods: Case reports were extracted from the local Municipal Health Commissions of 320 prefectural cities (municipalities) in China, not including Hubei province, between 4 January and 11 February 2020. We identified all outbreaks involving three or more cases and reviewed the major characteristics of the enclosed spaces in which the outbreaks were reported and associated indoor environmental issues. Results: Three hundred and eighteen outbreaks with three or more cases were identified, involving 1245 confirmed cases in 120 prefectural cities. We divided the venues in which the outbreaks occurred into six categories: homes, transport, food, entertainment, shopping, and miscellaneous. Among the identified outbreaks, 53.8% involved three cases,

I posted this meta-analysis - from a peer-reviewed journal published by @cdcgov - a while back but it seems like a good time to do so again, this time with highlighting! For those of you who missed it, here's the takeaway: Masks are useless.

In our systematic review, we identified 10 RCTs that reported estimates of the effectiveness of face masks in reducing laboratory-confirmed influenza virus infections in the community from literature published during 1946–July 27, 2018. In pooled analysis, we found no significant reduction in influenza transmission with the use of face masks (RR 0.78, 95% CI 0.51–1.20; $I^2$ = 30%, p = 0.25) (Figure 2). One study evaluated the use of masks among pilgrims from Australia during the Hajj pilgrimage and reported no major difference in the risk for laboratory-confirmed influenza virus infection in the control or mask group (33). Two studies in university settings assessed the effectiveness of

I posted this meta-analysis - from a peer-reviewed journal published by @cdcgov - a while back but it seems like a good time to do so again, this time with highlighting! For those of you who missed it, here's the takeaway: Masks are useless.

In our systematic review, we identified 10 RCTs that reported estimates of the effectiveness of face masks in reducing laboratory-confirmed influenza virus infections in the community from literature published during 1946–July 27, 2018. In pooled analysis, we found no significant reduction in influenza transmission with the use of face masks (RR 0.78, 95% CI 0.51–1.20; $I^2$ = 30%, p = 0.25) (Figure 2). One study evaluated the use of masks among pilgrims from Australia during the Hajj pilgrimage and reported no major difference in the risk for laboratory-confirmed influenza virus infection in the control or mask group (33). Two studies in university settings assessed the effectiveness of

So people in New Zealand didn't like this post much. It's only 14 days of border confinement, they said. A mere two weeks!

So you would like to see all those things open up?
With the social distancing that has been in place less than a month, over 30,000 people have died.
What do you think that number will be if we open all of these things? Are you okay with half a million or more deaths?

It's not like the flu, bro!

Only this chart from the 2007 @CDCgov guide to pandemic preparation says in terms of mortality it's just like a Category 2 flu pandemic (Category 1 is a typical year).

Know what actions the CDC proposes for a Cat 2 pandemic? Here's a hint: not much.

It's not like the flu, bro!

Only this chart from the 2007 @CDCgov guide to pandemic preparation says in terms of mortality it's just like a Category 2 flu pandemic (Category 1 is a typical year).

Know what actions the CDC proposes for a Cat 2 pandemic? Here's a hint: not much.

People cast votes for lots of reasons. But I will say: if you want the pandemic to go on forever, Joe Biden's your guy.

It's obvious now: the response to the pandemic IS the pandemic. We can be Sweden and get on with life, or Australia and pretend it's an emergency. Your call.

On Memorial Day, we recall our war dead. A good time to remind everyone:

In March, governors and health officials took our freedom by exaggerating the risks of #SarsCov2.

Now they want to trade it back for masks and contact tracing and made-up rules.

No. Never.

Fun fact from the @cdcgpv surveillance data: of 4,000 #COVID hospitalizations for which they provide detailed age data, 29 were in people under 18. That's not deaths or ICU visits - that's hospitalizations. The closing of the schools is nearly criminal at this point.

Holy moly, Batman. This study out of Japan (where testing is uncommon) suggests the real infection rate there is 400 to 800 times (!) the reported rate (and, like many European cities, Kobe, Japan had a 3% antibody rate by early April). medrxiv.org/content/10.110 …

In turn, this raises real questions about whether some of the apparent gap between Japan and Europe is real or an artifact of media/government reporting (look for an epidemic in nursing homes, you find one; don't and you don't?). Very hard to know.

Good morning. @fairfieldU - 6,000 students - is going to require random #SARSCoV2 testing for students, including some who live off-campus. Does HIPAA even allow this invasion of privacy? Imagine if they tried this for STis (which are probably more dangerous in this age range).

Dear Students:

As Fairfield University plans to Bring its Stags Home for the fall 2020 semester, a safe return to campus life is our most important priority. We want to make sure our community members have all the information they need to maintain the vibrancy of our campus life but do so as safety as possible.

Staying Safe: In order to keep our community safe, there will be several new requirements and expectations within our community.

- Testing and Contact Tracing. There will be statu
required COVID-19 testing of all residential students to their return and select off campus populations. There will also be random weekly testing of up to 10% of the residential students and select off campus populations throughout the semester. Specific details regarding testing will be community members. Masks must be worn at all times in public, including classrooms, when around other people.
Individuals without masks will be asked to leave classes or dining halls, etc. Once a community member arrives at private space – a residence hall bedroom, a private office, or while eating – masks may be removed

Campus Preparations:

Fairfield University's top-tier department is reviewing all offices, classrooms, housing spaces, dining facilities, and multi-purpose spaces throughout campus to determine the physical adjustments necessary to ensure all state mandated social distancing expectations. We will be engaging in more frequent and thorough cleaning
protocols, paying particular attention to high-touch areas
such as door handles

Looks official - @amazon BACKED DOWN! Of course I don't know what anyone who doesn't have @elonmusk and so many others pushing will do, but at least this time they backed down.

What happened to me? What happened to journalism? Your reporters are misinforming people about the state of the hospitals in a city with millions of people. They are, debliberately or not, inciting panic. I report facts rather than trying to foment fear. You should try it.

> Richard Tofel @dicktofel

I posted this meta-analysis - from a peer-reviewed journal published by @cdcgov - a while back but it seems like a good time to do so again, this time with highlighting! For those of you who missed it, here's the takeaway: Masks are useless.

In our systematic review, we identified 10 RCTs that reported estimates of the effectiveness of face masks in reducing laboratory-confirmed influenza virus infections in the community from literature published during 1946–July 27, 2018. In pooled analysis, we found no significant reduction in influenza transmission with the use of face masks (RR 0.78, 95% CI 0.51–1.20; $I^2$ = 30%, p = 0.25) (Figure 2). One study evaluated the use of masks among pilgrims from Australia during the Hajj pilgrimage and reported no major difference in the risk for laboratory-confirmed influenza virus infection in the control or mask group (33). Two studies in university settings assessed the effectiveness of

Maybe because they are together, in confined spaces, for long durations with physical contact. Or maybe because they share towels, utensils, furniture, electronics, remotes, appliances, food, air. Speaking of air, change your filter regularly.

I posted this meta-analysis - from a peer-reviewed journal published by @cdcgov - a while back but it seems like a good time to do so again, this time with highlighting! For those of you who missed it, here's the takeaway: Masks are useless.

In our systematic review, we identified 10 RCTs that reported estimates of the effectiveness of face masks in reducing laboratory-confirmed influenza virus infections in the community from literature published during 1946–July 27, 2018. In pooled analysis, we found no significant reduction in influenza transmission with the use of face masks (RR 0.78, 95% CI 0.51–1.20; $I^2$ = 30%, p = 0.25) (Figure 2). One study evaluated the use of masks among pilgrims from Australia during the Hajj pilgrimage and reported no major difference in the risk for laboratory-confirmed influenza virus infection in the control or mask group (33). Two studies in university settings assessed the effectiveness of

On Memorial Day, we recall our war dead. A good time to remind everyone:

In March, governors and health officials took our freedom by exaggerating the risks of #SarsCov2.

Now they want to trade it back for masks and contact tracing and made-up rules.

No. Never.

So far this fall they are below 70,000, roughly the same as the 2018 flu season. More evidence (though not proof) both that the second wave is less deadly than the first and the daily #Covid death numbers may be capturing many “with” deaths. Btw, see how badly Sweden isn’t doing?

With the social distancing that has been in place less than a month, over 30,000 people have died.
What do you think that number will be if we open all of these things? Are you okay with half a million or more deaths?

I posted this meta-analysis - from a peer-reviewed journal published by @cdcgov - a while back but it seems like a good time to do so again, this time with highlighting! For those of you who missed it, here's the takeaway: Masks are useless.

In our systematic review, we identified 10 RCTs that reported estimates of the effectiveness of face masks in reducing laboratory-confirmed influenza virus infections in the community from literature published during 1946–July 27, 2018. In pooled analysis, we found no significant reduction in influenza transmission with the use of face masks (RR 0.78, 95% CI 0.51–1.20; $I^2$ = 30%, p = 0.25) (Figure 2). One study evaluated the use of masks among pilgrims from Australia during the Hajj pilgrimage and reported no major difference in the risk for laboratory-confirmed influenza virus infection in the control or mask group (33). Two studies in university settings assessed the effectiveness of

It's not like the flu, bro!

Only this chart from the 2007 @CDCgov guide to pandemic preparation says in terms of mortality it's just like a Category 2 flu pandemic (Category 1 is a typical year).

Know what actions the CDC proposes for a Cat 2 pandemic? Here's a hint: not much.

Abstract

where and how SARS-CoV-2 is transmitted. Methods: Case reports were extracted from the local Municipal Health Commissions of 320 prefectural cities (municipalities) in China, not including Hubei province, between 4 January and 11 February 2020. We identified all outbreaks involving three or more cases and reviewed the major characteristics of the enclosed spaces in which the outbreaks were reported and associated indoor environmental issues. Results: Three hundred and eighteen outbreaks with three or more cases were identified, involving 1245 confirmed cases in 120 prefectural cities. We divided the venues in which the outbreaks occurred into six categories: homes, transport, food, entertainment, shopping, and miscellaneous. Among the identified outbreaks, 53.8% involved three cases,

If you're looking for a source, it's section 10 of this report. 163 Italians under 40 have died of #Covid. Of those, 15 are known to have "no major pathologies" (psychiatric illnesses, kidney problems, etc).

Italy has about 24 million people under 40.

Could be misleading, although I agree with the point you're making. I'd rebut that the results are heavily skewed by including 0-18, or even 0-29, which are astronomically low. Now do 30-40. It'll still be very rare, but not nearly 1/1mll.

Maybe because they are together, in confined spaces, for long durations with physical contact. Or maybe because they share towels, utensils, furniture, electronics, remotes, appliances, food, air. Speaking of air, change your filter regularly.

followed it since the beginning of the pandemic. I am sure my story is one you have heard multiple times, but I thought I would share with you, anyway. People really need to be educated re. PCR tests and "cases" vs. "infections"

I had a slight cough on Sunday evening, which is not unusual for me, as I am asthmatic. I am a high-school teacher, and I notified my school "covid liaison" that I had some very minor symptoms. They asked if I would please get a test and quarantine until I got results. I agreed to do so, even though I had no other symptoms--no fever, taste/smell intact, no chills, etc.

I got the PCR test early Monday morning. On Tuesday afternoon my results came back as Pro tip: If the number of deaths blamed on a virus can rise or fall significantly based on the technical testing specifications needed to tell if someone with dementia or in kidney failure actually HAS the virus...

Maybe the virus isn't the worst plague since yadda yadda yadda.

I have had the virus since Sunday. I am a 64 year old healthy, fit, type 2 diabetic. This is very similar to a flu or extremely bad cold. Many of my friends are asking why I'm not hospitalized. They should look at the statistics.

If you're looking for a source, it's section 10 of this report. 163 Italians under 40 have died of . Of those, 15 are known to have "no major pathologies" (psychiatric illnesses, kidney problems, etc).

Italy has about 24 million people under 40.

Ok, 163/24 million is 0.00068%, which is 10 times the number you've cited. Also, you don't report the chances of dying from COVID as number of people dead/total number of people. You should divide from the number of people that contracted the disease.

corey fields @coreylf · 2 Std.

No. He's talking about absolute population-level risk, which is a different than CFR/IFR. i.e. "chances of random person in population contracting and dying of covid in this age range". And he used 15, not 163, because he said "healthy".

Fun fact from the @cdcgpv surveillance data: of 4,000 #COVID hospitalizations for which they provide detailed age data, 29 were in people under 18. That's not deaths or ICU visits - that's hospitalizations. The closing of the schools is nearly criminal at this point.

I posted this meta-analysis - from a peer-reviewed journal published by @cdcgov - a while back but it seems like a good time to do so again, this time with highlighting! For those of you who missed it, here's the takeaway: Masks are useless.

In our systematic review, we identified 10 RCTs that reported estimates of the effectiveness of face masks in reducing laboratory-confirmed influenza virus infections in the community from literature published during 1946–July 27, 2018. In pooled analysis, we found no significant reduction in influenza transmission with the use of face masks (RR 0.78, 95% CI 0.51–1.20; $I^2$ = 30%, p = 0.25) (Figure 2). One study evaluated the use of masks among pilgrims from Australia during the Hajj pilgrimage and reported no major difference in the risk for laboratory-confirmed influenza virus infection in the control or mask group (33). Two studies in university settings assessed the effectiveness of where and how SARS-CoV-2 is transmitted. Methods: Case reports were extracted from the local Municipal Health Commissions of 320 prefectural cities (municipalities) in China, not including Hubei province, between 4 January and 11 February 2020. We identified all outbreaks involving three or more cases and reviewed the major characteristics of the enclosed spaces in which the outbreaks were reported and associated indoor environmental issues. Results: Three hundred and eighteen outbreaks with three or more cases were identified, involving 1245 confirmed cases in 120 prefectural cities. We divided the venues in which the outbreaks occurred into six categories: homes, transport, food, entertainment, shopping, and miscellaneous. Among the identified outbreaks, 53.8% involved three cases,

Dear Students:

As Fairfield University plans to Bring its Stags Home for the fall 2020 semester, a safe return to campus life is our most important priority. We want to make sure our community members have all the information they need to maintain the vibrancy of our campus life but do so as safety as possible.

Staying Safe: In order to keep our community safe, there will be several new requirements and expectations within our community.

- Testing and Contact Tracing. There will be statu
required COVID-19 testing of all residential students to their return and select off campus populations. There will also be random weekly testing of up to 10% of the residential students and select off campus populations throughout the semester. Specific details regarding testing will be community members. Masks must be worn at all times in public, including classrooms, when around other people.
Individuals without masks will be asked to leave classes or dining halls, etc. Once a community member arrives at private space – a residence hall bedroom, a private office, or while eating – masks may be removed

Campus Preparations:

Fairfield University's top-tier department is reviewing all offices, classrooms, housing spaces, dining facilities, and multi-purpose spaces throughout campus to determine the physical adjustments necessary to ensure all state mandated social distancing expectations. We will be engaging in more frequent and thorough cleaning
protocols, paying particular attention to high-touch areas
such as door handles

Best way to get full school reopenings:

MANDATE TEACHERS HAVE TO COME IN AND WORK FULL DAYS, even if the school is only open virtually.

Once they know they can't hang out at home, they will beg for kids to come back rather than dealing with online teaching.

Good morning. @fairfieldU - 6,000 students - is going to require random #SARSCoV2 testing for students, including some who live off-campus. Does HIPAA even allow this invasion of privacy? Imagine if they tried this for STis (which are probably more dangerous in this age range).

Dear Students:

As Fairfield University plans to Bring its Stags Home for the fall 2020 semester, a safe return to campus life is our most important priority. We want to make sure our community members have all the information they need to maintain the vibrancy of our campus life but do so as safety as possible.

Staying Safe: In order to keep our community safe, there will be several new requirements and expectations within our community.

Fun fact from the @cdcgpv surveillance data: of 4,000 #COVID hospitalizations for which they provide detailed age data, 29 were in people under 18. That's not deaths or ICU visits - that's hospitalizations. The closing of the schools is nearly criminal at this point.

On Memorial Day, we recall our war dead. A good time to remind everyone:

In March, governors and health officials took our freedom by exaggerating the risks of #SarsCov2.

Now they want to trade it back for masks and contact tracing and made-up rules.

No. Never.

Long Covid reporting is my favorite Covid reporting, btw. Everything I love about the new unjournalism in one neat package - huge conclusions from tiny uncontrolled studies, scaremongering from financially conflicted physicians, and bizarre firsthand narratives told unchallenged.

So you would like to see all those things open up?
With the social distancing that has been in place less than a month, over 30,000 people have died.
What do you think that number will be if we open all of these things? Are you okay with half a million or more deaths?

It's not like the flu, bro!

Only this chart from the 2007 @CDCgov guide to pandemic preparation says in terms of mortality it's just like a Category 2 flu pandemic (Category 1 is a typical year).

Know what actions the CDC proposes for a Cat 2 pandemic? Here's a hint: not much.

I posted this meta-analysis - from a peer-reviewed journal published by @cdcgov - a while back but it seems like a good time to do so again, this time with highlighting! For those of you who missed it, here's the takeaway: Masks are useless.

In our systematic review, we identified 10 RCTs that reported estimates of the effectiveness of face masks in reducing laboratory-confirmed influenza virus infections in the community from literature published during 1946–July 27, 2018. In pooled analysis, we found no significant reduction in influenza transmission with the use of face masks (RR 0.78, 95% CI 0.51–1.20; $I^2$ = 30%, p = 0.25) (Figure 2). One study evaluated the use of masks among pilgrims from Australia during the Hajj pilgrimage and reported no major difference in the risk for laboratory-confirmed influenza virus infection in the control or mask group (33). Two studies in university settings assessed the effectiveness of

Best way to get full school reopenings:

MANDATE TEACHERS HAVE TO COME IN AND WORK FULL DAYS, even if the school is only open virtually.

Once they know they can't hang out at home, they will beg for kids to come back rather than dealing with online teaching.

Good times: "The two had sex in a classroom on 2017 when Jones was a married professor (at FSU), the man told police."

COVID-19 disclosures will continue into August, a circuit judge in Tallahassee ruled Wednesday.

Rebekah Jones, 30, was charged in July 2019 with stalking a former boyfriend – long before the pandemic that catapulted her into headlines and television interviews. Police said she published a 68-page document online discussing private details of her relationship with her former boyfriend, including explicit texts and nude photographs, and shared the link with him.

The two had sex in a classroom in 2017 when Jones was his married professor at Florida State University, the man told police. She was fired from the university after threatening to give a failing grade to his roommate as revenge. he

On Memorial Day, we recall our war dead. A good time to remind everyone:

In March, governors and health officials took our freedom by exaggerating the risks of #SarsCov2.

Now they want to trade it back for masks and contact tracing and made-up rules.

No. Never.

So people in New Zealand didn't like this post much. It's only 14 days of border confinement, they said. A mere two weeks!

Guess again. It's only 14 days AND a negative test. Even if you have no symptoms. Otherwise, you can check out any time you like, but you can never leave.

Dutch government will not advise public to wear masks - minister (Reuters) - The Dutch government on Wednesday said it will not advise the public to wear masks to slow the spread of coronavirus, asserting that their effectiveness has not been proven.

The decision was announced by Minister for Medical Care Tamara van Ark after a review by the country's National Institute for Health (RIVM). The government will instead seek better adherence to social distancing rules after a surge in coronavirus cases in the country this week, Van Ark said at a press

With the social distancing that has been in place less than a month, over 30,000 people have died.
What do you think that number will be if we open all of these things? Are you okay with half a million or more deaths?

I posted this meta-analysis - from a peer-reviewed journal published by @cdcgov - a while back but it seems like a good time to do so again, this time with highlighting! For those of you who missed it, here's the takeaway: Masks are useless.

In our systematic review, we identified 10 RCTs that reported estimates of the effectiveness of face masks in reducing laboratory-confirmed influenza virus infections in the community from literature published during 1946–July 27, 2018. In pooled analysis, we found no significant reduction in influenza transmission with the use of face masks (RR 0.78, 95% CI 0.51–1.20; $I^2$ = 30%, p = 0.25) (Figure 2). One study evaluated the use of masks among pilgrims from Australia during the Hajj pilgrimage and reported no major difference in the risk for laboratory-confirmed influenza virus infection in the control or mask group (33). Two studies in university settings assessed the effectiveness of

Fun fact from the @cdcgpv surveillance data: of 4,000 #COVID hospitalizations for which they provide detailed age data, 29 were in people under 18. That's not deaths or ICU visits - that's hospitalizations. The closing of the schools is nearly criminal at this point.

Explosive viral spread (e.g., in The Dakotas) eventually slows down on its own because there's fewer people left to infect. But with an effective vaccine rolling out, there's a much safer and easier path to herd immunity.

Good morning. @fairfieldU - 6,000 students - is going to require random #SARSCoV2 testing for students, including some who live off-campus. Does HIPAA even allow this invasion of privacy? Imagine if they tried this for STis (which are probably more dangerous in this age range).

Dear Students:

As Fairfield University plans to Bring its Stags Home for the fall 2020 semester, a safe return to campus life is our most important priority. We want to make sure our community members have all the information they need to maintain the vibrancy of our campus life but do so as safety as possible.

Staying Safe: In order to keep our community safe, there will be several new requirements and expectations within our community.

where and how SARS-CoV-2 is transmitted. Methods: Case reports were extracted from the local Municipal Health Commissions of 320 prefectural cities (municipalities) in China, not including Hubei province, between 4 January and 11 February 2020. We identified all outbreaks involving three or more cases and reviewed the major characteristics of the enclosed spaces in which the outbreaks were reported and associated indoor environmental issues. Results: Three hundred and eighteen outbreaks with three or more cases were identified, involving 1245 confirmed cases in 120 prefectural cities. We divided the venues in which the outbreaks occurred into six categories: homes, transport, food, entertainment, shopping, and miscellaneous. Among the identified outbreaks, 53.8% involved three cases,

What happened to me? What happened to journalism? Your reporters are misinforming people about the state of the hospitals in a city with millions of people. They are, debliberately or not, inciting panic. I report facts rather than trying to foment fear. You should try it.

Here's the CDC data. All-cause mortality in 2020 is 13% above expected (12% doesn't account for the reporting lag). There will be 350,000+ excess deaths this year. Many of those are lockdown deaths (including some fraction of those counted as COVID)...

Wrong again, sweetie. Turns out [illegible], like most blue-checks huffing about how despicable I am, can't be bothered to read my actual feed. Shocker, I know. I'm sure an apology and retraction will be arriving on the 12th of never.

Note that the article never says when the obituary was published. That's because it ran three months ago. Scott Miller died almost four months ago.

@nytimes scoured obits around the country to find ones to push this narrative and they had to reach back to September to find one?

Sorry if this is confusing. What I mean is, if they wanted to report severe Covid cases at 9-1, for consistency's sake they should have gone with a topline figure of 244-47 for all cases. That's still strongly in favor of the vaccine, obviously, but it isn't as eye-popping.

I'm ok with this. It shows that 1 shot still mostly eliminates severe cases while 2 shots eliminates most symptomatic cases.

3/ Yes, encouraging people 70-75 and over - especially those in care homes - to be vaccinated still makes sense. But not because the data in that population is so impressive (the numbers are just too small), mainly because we know they're at extreme risk from [redacted], so why not?

Everyone should read this paper, esp. Tables 15, 17, and 19, and this weird bit on pg. 41:

"Among 3,410 total cases of suspected but unconfirmed COVID-19 in the overall study population, 1,594 occurred in the vaccine group vs. 1816 in the placebo group."

What does that imply? 1500 seems meaningfully "lower" than 1800.. not anywhere close to the margin that would lead to "90% effective" stats. But it's there.

2/ This might be the worst outcome of all, because the pressure for vaccination will be huge - EVEN FOR PEOPLE WHO HAVE ALREADY RECOVERED FROM #Covid OR HAVE TINY PERSONAL RISK.

What's the fair vaccine risk to make someone take in that case? I don't know, but very close to zero.

Here's @cdcgov on the @pfizer vaccine's safety:

"About 9% of vaccine recipients vs. 2% of placebo recipients reported grade ≥3 reactions."

CDC estimated the vaccine would prevent 9 cases of #Covid per 1,000 people - and cause 68 more severe reactions.

Also: I can't find in either the FDA brief or @Pfizer's protocol the PCR cycle threshold used to confirm cases. Has anyone seen it? Does anyone know ANYTHING about those 3,410 "suspected but unconfirmed" cases that would have resulted in a null finding if they'd been confirmed?

1/ This is fiction. In the most basic sense: it compares a made-up and unverifiable estimate of what might have happened if lockdowns had not occurred with actual death counts (which themselves are iffy).

There's no real-world evidence lockdowns have saved lives...

2/ In fact, in both the US and Europe, the states and nations with the longest, most restrictive lockdowns have had the worst outcomes. Correlation is not necessarily causation in this case, but at the least the correlation suggests lockdowns are largely irrelevant to outcome...

And the vaccine's profile is most harmful among people who are younger and thus at far lower risk from #Covid. If this fact is not communicated clearly - and if people are not then given the chance to decide whether to take the vaccine for themselves - the anger will be huge.

The fact lockdowns don't make sense as a public health measure never stopped blue-state governors from imposing them - but the fact that they're political poison might. Or are Lucky Sperm, Meatballs, and the rest too cocooned to understand the change?

Or him sitting with a dozen others indoor dining for hours? No masks no distancing? We are used to the left's hypocrisy, but a man as vain as Newsom would never put himself in harm's way. The truth was revealed for all.

Once COVID measures become too unpopular, they'll be walked back. With the (toothless) federal mask mandate and a lower PCR cycle threshold, Biden has a way to declare victory. The vax should help with that too. The Dems care more Someone asked about how adverse events in clinical trials are graded. Quick answer here. Grade 3 and 4 events are no joke: Grade 3 "are serious and interfere with a person's ability to do basic things like eat." Grade 4 usually require hospitalization.

I agree, this is how it should and probably does work - and thus people 70 (65? 75?) or over should be encouraged to be vaccinated, whatever the side effects.

BUT WE DON'T KNOW. If we'd slowed the trials and enrolled the right population, we'd know. Instead we're assuming.

As for those of you waiting for @twitter to shut me up because open discussion and facts you don't like make you uncomfortable... I guess you'll have to keep waiting.

This is why Twitter, whatever its flaws, is light-years ahead of @facebook etc on free speech. Thanks, @jack!

Just FYI

> Alex Berenson
> Lot of people complaining I'm raising questions about the vaccine. So you know, there's no conspiracy theory nonsense - no THIS HAS A MICROCHIP AND BILL GATES WANTS TO STERILIZE YOU. Everything I point to about safety comes straight from the clinical trial data. And my broader point is simply that we shouldn't be mandating this for adults - we never have before and the risk profile of both the vaccine and Covid don't support it.

I hope you and Jack will agree this is exactly the kind of discussion Twitter should support.

> Brendon Borrman
> Thanks Alex. The points you're raising should not be an issue at all. The policy is designed to allow debate and discussion, but to discourage conspiracy theories, etc. Please let me know if you run into any issues.

I posted this meta-analysis - from a peer-reviewed journal published by @cdcgov - a while back but it seems like a good time to do so again, this time with highlighting! For those of you who missed it, here's the takeaway: Masks are useless.

In our systematic review, we identified 10 RCTs that reported estimates of the effectiveness of face masks in reducing laboratory-confirmed influenza virus infections in the community from literature published during 1946–July 27, 2018. In pooled analysis, we found no significant reduction in influenza transmission with the use of face masks (RR 0.78, 95% CI 0.51–1.20; $I^2$ = 30%, p = 0.25) (Figure 2). One study evaluated the use of masks among pilgrims from Australia during the Hajj pilgrimage and reported no major difference in the risk for laboratory-confirmed influenza virus infection in the control or mask group (33). Two studies in university settings assessed the effectiveness of

1/ So the usual suspects whined about this thread - even if the math is right (it's right), it doesn't account for all other #Covid illnesses.

YA CAN'T ONLY COMPARE ADVERSE EVENTS AND DEATH, MORON!

Only one problem: many healthy young people have no symptoms at all.

How many?

3/ Here's another one. 95% asymptomatic. Compare that to the Moderna vaccine profile - where 90+% of non-elderly recipients had at least minor adverse events and almost 1 in 5 had serious ones.

The fact is: the vaccine will be worse than the ro for most young healthy people.

positive case. The next day, there were additional confirmed cases. By Sunday, 376 workers had been tested. Out of those tested, 53 employees and 71 locally-based contractors tested positive, according to Pacific Seafood.

About 95% were asymptomatic, state officials said.

The outbreak contributed to Oregon's highest case total in a single day as the state reported 146 cases Sunday.

Health officials have reported about 5,000 positive cases, with at least 169 deaths.

This is a good deal for you, because the side effects are going to come out anyway. Based on the clinical trial data some people who get the second dose will have really bad things happen. So you might want to get in front of that.

Yes, this actually happened: an "expert in ethics and health policy" said that the elderly - who are at far greater risk from [redacted] and have fewer vaccine side effects - shouldn't get the vaccine first. Why? Because the elderly are more likely to be white.

Good times.

There's never been a better time to be a contrarian reporter.

Information is relatively easy to get and cheap to distribute and the people who should be competing to ask hard questions are hopelessly ideologically confused and either watching from the side or chasing nonsense.

Meanwhile, from a father in upstate New York. “Online school has slowly made (my son) depressed and unmotivated.” I’m running this one not because it’s exceptional - the boy hasn’t hurt himself - but because it’s so standard. Lockdowns and school closures are crushing kids.

and wanted to share my son's experience so far with Covid.

Now in 7th grade, he had previously been one of the happiest people I knew, wakes up with a smile every day and used to love school. There wasn't a thing about school he didn't enjoy.

Now though, he's only in school twice a week, virtual the other 3 days, in an upstate NY school district. Even on days he's in school, he talks to one friend per day, at lunch in a large gym, 6-feet away with his mask on. He told me today he's forgotten how to interact with other kids and is unsure how to get that back.

He's also seen a lapse in school work and has been submit. It seems like a strange answer, but the online school has slowly made him depressed and unmotivated.

He has been reluctant to look at other schools, but finally today said that he's open to looking at a school that is open 5 days a week and doesn't require masks while at his desk, so we will pursue that option.

My sense is that if someone like my son who was so happy with no signs of depression could switch so fast, how are kids handling this who were already on the edge of sadness seeking in?

Thanks and feel free to share this story.

5/ Yes, the system was badly strained, but it didn't collapse. California has 40 million people. Right now about 16,000 are hospitalized from/with #Covid. (And because we're testing so widely, many of those are WITH, not from.) Don't let them panic you.

With winter coming (sunlight helps the body make Vitamin D), public health advice for Vitamin D supplements might actually be useful. Hard to see much downside, anyway.

Of course Vitamin D costs about 0.00001% as much as other interventions, so it wouldn't help the #Coveconomy.

Maybe intrafamilial because most folks don't stay 6ft away from their family members. Just a thought.

Maybe because they are together, in confined spaces, for long durations with physical contact. Or maybe because they share towels, utensils, furniture, electronics, remotes, appliances, food, air. Speaking of air, change your filter regularly.

1/ Remember: the severe allergic reactions are truly the tip of the iceberg. In other vaccines those run at 1 per million. The mRNA vaccines cause them at orders of magnitude higher - somewhere between 1 in 2,500 and 1 in 40,000 for the first shot, based on the early data.

> Severe allergic reactions, or anaphylaxis, after vaccination occur in about 1.3 cases per million, according to the U.S.'s vaccine reporting system, Dr. Wright says. "We can look to those statistics to reassure us," she said.

The question you should ask yourself is NOT, do #Covid vaccines have significant short-term side effects in many people who receive them? The answer at this point is unquestionably yes. The question is, why would a physician or anyone else lie about that fact?

With the social distancing that has been in place less than a month, over 30,000 people have died.
What do you think that number will be if we open all of these things? Are you okay with half a million or more deaths?

I posted this meta-analysis - from a peer-reviewed journal published by @cdcgov - a while back but it seems like a good time to do so again, this time with highlighting! For those of you who missed it, here's the takeaway: Masks are useless.

In our systematic review, we identified 10 RCTs that reported estimates of the effectiveness of face masks in reducing laboratory-confirmed influenza virus infections in the community from literature published during 1946–July 27, 2018. In pooled analysis, we found no significant reduction in influenza transmission with the use of face masks (RR 0.78, 95% CI 0.51–1.20; $I^2$ = 30%, p = 0.25) (Figure 2). One study evaluated the use of masks among pilgrims from Australia during the Hajj pilgrimage and reported no major difference in the risk for laboratory-confirmed influenza virus infection in the control or mask group (33). Two studies in university settings assessed the effectiveness of

So people in New Zealand didn't like this post much. It's only 14 days of border confinement, they said. A mere two weeks!

Guess again. It's only 14 days AND a negative test. Even if you have no symptoms. Otherwise, you can check out any time you like, but you can never leave.

What happened to me? What happened to journalism? Your reporters are misinforming people about the state of the hospitals in a city with millions of people. They are, debliberately or not, inciting panic. I report facts rather than trying to foment fear. You should try it.

> "sweet panic porn"? What happened to you? Is that how it felt to you to inform people about dangerous situations when you were a journalist? People are dying, and the economy is in the tank, in part because the public is getting some bad advice. There is no sweetness in this.

Massachusetts just put out its first weekly Covid vaccine report. Super comprehensive. How many doses given by county, age (2% to people over 70, genius!), and race.

Everything you could want.

Update on telling police they're all awful racists and should stay home:

Going better than ever.

Murder increases in 2020.

ATL, 58%
CHI, 56%
DAL, 24%
LA, 31%
NYC, 39%
MIN, 74%
Philly, 39%
SF, 32%

This will be by far the worst one-year rise in US history.

And this is how the public health establishment is going to try to force vaccinations: nothing goes back to normal until "every person" (presumably including children?) submits.

This is the worst possible tack they can take.

True story: I can see @amazon ship booklets in real time, hundreds or thousands a day. Last night shipping stopped. Today it's still at zero.

Which means Amazon's warehouses have more or less closed for the day. Even Jeff Bezos isn't completely heartless. Merry Christmas to all!

How can anyone even argue it? Vaccinating health-care workers first is INSANE as policy. It only makes sense as theater - in two ways. First, it (theoretically) creates momentum for mass adult vaccinations - look, those smart health-care workers did it, now we'll do it...

Abstract

where and how SARS-CoV-2 is transmitted. Methods: Case reports were extracted from the local Municipal Health Commissions of 320 prefectural cities (municipalities) in China, not including Hubei province, between 4 January and 11 February 2020. We identified all outbreaks involving three or more cases and reviewed the major characteristics of the enclosed spaces in which the outbreaks were reported and associated indoor environmental issues. Results: Three hundred and eighteen outbreaks with three or more cases were identified, involving 1245 confirmed cases in 120 prefectural cities. We divided the venues in which the outbreaks occurred into six categories: homes, transport, food, entertainment, shopping, and miscellaneous. Among the identified outbreaks, 53.8% involved three cases,

So you would like to see all those things open up?
With the social distancing that has been in place less than a month, over 30,000 people have died.
What do you think that number will be if we open all of these things? Are you okay with half a million or more deaths?

On Memorial Day, we recall our war dead. A good time to remind everyone:

In March, governors and health officials took our freedom by exaggerating the risks of #SarsCov2.

Now they want to trade it back for masks and contact tracing and made-up rules.

No. Never.

Guess again. We have no idea how many times it's happened because the people who know won't say, but it occurred at least six times in the first 127,000 shots, likely more (far more than other vaccines). More importantly it is not the only serious side effect - just the first.

Good morning. @fairfieldU - 6,000 students - is going to require random #SARSCoV2 testing for students, including some who live off-campus. Does HIPAA even allow this invasion of privacy? Imagine if they tried this for STis (which are probably more dangerous in this age range).

Dear Students:

As Fairfield University plans to Bring its Stags Home for the fall 2020 semester, a safe return to campus life is our most important priority. We want to make sure our community members have all the information they need to maintain the vibrancy of our campus life but do so as safety as possible.

Staying Safe: In order to keep our community safe, there will be several new requirements and expectations within our community.

From Ventura County: "More than 70% of hospital staff who were offered shots took them."

Which, umm, means almost 30% didn't - according to the guy running the vaccinations, who you can be sure will put the best possible face on it.

Though vaccine hesitancy worries health leaders nationwide, more than 70% of the hospital staff who were offered shots took them, said Pettit.

"At first I wasn't too sure about getting it," said Xochitl Gonzalez, a patient care tech at Los Robles Regional Medical Center in Thousand Oaks. She bared her arm for the shot in part because she knows what the virus can do.

"I felt like I needed to be protected for myself and for my family," she said.

Fun fact from the @cdcgpv surveillance data: of 4,000 #COVID hospitalizations for which they provide detailed age data, 29 were in people under 18. That's not deaths or ICU visits - that's hospitalizations. The closing of the schools is nearly criminal at this point.

2/ That estimate does NOT mean that 0.25% of the US will die - preexisting immunity is real, though we don't know how common. Also, the ro death numbers look inflated this fall (based on all-cause mortality).

Okay the @cdcgov now has #covid vaccine adverse events in its VAERS system. This is as of last Friday (Xmas) so expect a major lag. Still CDC reports five "life-threatening" events, 79 ER visits, and four hospitalizations, which must be low since more have been publicly reported.

The Vaccine Adverse Event Reporting System (VAERS) Results

Remember all those predictions harkening back to the fall wave of the Spanish flu, all those charts saying "we are here" with an arrow just before the giant spike?

Can we all agree now those were complete shite?

I think these people tell themselves "we don't want to downplay this pandemic!" to justify the fact that they're also giving in to being bullied into obfuscating basic, critical information.

That, and a lot of them are just idiots. That always helps!

Per the CDC, overdose deaths, I assume from all drugs, not just opiods, were about 70k in 2017 and another 70k in 2018. I imagine the number is roughly the same in 2019 and 2020 it will be far far worse. The life years lost in those four years will dwarf Covid by a huge factor.

The problem for public health types is that even if the vaccine actually works better and has fewer side effects than everything else they have forced on us this year, they have no credibility left. People will insist on a slow rollout and plenty of time to judge side effects.

This is pure fantasy. I don't know why the Indian epidemic burned out (low median age is the best bet), but mask compliance is nearly universal in the US. Even in Florida, where I am now, indoor mask wearing approaches 100%. Businesses enforce the rules where governments don't.

We're in a health crisis? Like a crisis of an infectious disease with a fatality rate of ~30%? Or 10%? Or 1%? Or 0.01% for healthy young adults?

Oh. I missed that.

Though really I try not to impugn motive (@zekeemanuel and the rest of the doing good by doing good docs are notable exceptions); I just assume they're scared and bad at math.

From a reader:

> Merry Christmas and happy new year. Re: India---I don't know if you were aware that India established a mask mandate in "early April," even before the WHO was recommending it. And it had teeth, too—I believe imprisonment and/or fines for non-compliance. Citations were reportedly common but it's insane to think that the vast majority of Indians weren't wearing masks by early summer (the WSJ article actually makes that clear, I believe).
> To swallow this narrative we'd have to believe that, per the epi curve, Indians refused to wear masks for five whole months before suddenly deciding en masse to doff them.

From a reader, a painful story. Here's how we get to 340,000 (reported) #Covid deaths. Isolation killed his mom, who had dementia but was otherwise healthy until she was hospitalized for a UTI and denied human contact; Covid is on her death certificate. "Nobody should die alone."

Mark Troutman
to me
Dec 16 Details

Mr. Berenson,

My mom passed away in a rehab center on Friday, December 11th. The cause of death was listed as Covid. I don't believe it was and I believe her death could have been avoided. She was 87.

Around November of 2018, my mom started showing signs of Dementia. My dad passed away from cancer in 2010 and her brother died from cancer in 2009. I'm an only child and I live 230 miles away, but I came up for weekends at least once a month. Mom was living by herself and completely taking care of herself. By March of 2019, the Dementia was gradually getting a little worse. I starting coming up more weekends and in March I had home caregivers coming in for about (6) hours a day for companionship. She was still cooking and doing the laundry. As time passed, I was coming up at least every other weekend and I had caregivers there from 8AM to 6PM everyday when I wasn't there. She would go to bed

The year in review:

Yep. By April 6 the real threat was over. NYC's experience made clear that even at its worst #sarscov2 couldn't overrun hospitals or disrupt society.

Everything since has been public health theater at massive cost and conscious efforts to pump death counts.

And the theater hasn't mattered - the US, Europe, and South America have converged in terms of deaths, lockdowns and masks be dammed. East Asia has remained an outlier, for reasons that remain unclear.

Meanwhile, [illegible] accounts for less than 3% of deaths worldwide this year.

The curse of the incidental illness: Seen as side effects to Covid vaccinations, ailments

The risk of the public misinterpreting such anecdotal reports may be especially acute early on in the rollout, when elderly adults and people with health conditions have been prioritized to get the vaccine. Nursing home residents are in Phase 1a — currently ongoing — and seniors 75 and older are in Phase 1b. People aged 65 to 74 and those with medical conditions that increase the risk of severe Covid disease are in Phase 1c. These are people to 91-year-old in Switzerland gets #covid vaccine, dies. Authorities say the vaccine didn't kill her.

Guess what? They're probably right. And if she'd gotten #Covid it wouldn't have been what killed her either, though we would have recorded it that way forever.

for the death of an elderly person in Switzerland just days after she received the jab, Swiss authorities said Wednesday.

Swiss authorities dismiss claim woman died due to vaccination

Btw: because neither @moderna_tx nor @pfizer bothered to enroll more than a handful of people over 75 - much less 85 - in their trials, we really have no idea what the adverse event profile looks like for vaccines in the very elderly. Oopsie!

Hey @scottgottliebmd @albertbourla, y'all have lapped up every bit of publicity about @pfizer 's vaccine for months, how about you do a dumb reporter a solid and explain why you enrolled almost no elderly patients in your 40,000+ trial? No? I'll be around, say hi.

Correct, and about 1/2 of all #Covid deaths worldwide are in the 80+ range - while fewer than 1 person in 50 is that old worldwide. The regulators should have forced the companies to enroll more older people in the trials, but WARRRRRP SPEEEED, amirite?

So in Israel, where vaccinations are furthest along, four people have died shortly after being vaccinated (out of 650,000, but this is VERY shortly afterwards). Three quickly deemed unrelated, including this case - judge for yourself how they can be sure.

THE TIMES OF ISRAEL

On Monday, a man, 75, received a vaccine shot in his northern hometown of Beit She'an. After waiting an obligatory half an hour at the medical clinic, he was released home, saying he felt fine. Some time after getting home, he lost consciousness and was later pronounced

A worker receives a COVID-19 vaccine at a Maccabi Healthcare Services vaccination center in Modiin on December 28, 2020 (Yossi Aloni/Flash90)

The Health Ministry said a preliminary investigation indicated that his death did not appear to be connected to the shot. The man suffered from heart disease and cancer, and had suffered a number of previous heart attacks, the ministry said.

The man's family also asked not to link his death to the vaccine, Hebrew media reported.

Health Ministry Director-General Chezy Levy nonetheless announced the formation of a committee of inquiry to investigate the incident.

[illegible] there have been four cases where people in Israel have died shortly after receiving the vaccination, but three of the four were deemed by the Health Ministry, as well as by both family members and doctors, to have been unrelated to the shots. The fourth case, an 86-year-old man who had serious preexisting health problems, is currently being investigated.

The Pfizer vaccine is not made with the coronavirus itself, meaning that there is no chance anyone could catch it from the shots. Instead, the vaccine contains a piece

They are also giving the elderly the vaccine at a very high rate. I have to imagine that there is a non zero chance of people randomly dying after taking the vaccine given the number of elderly vaccinations.

Fun fact from the @cdcgpv surveillance data: of 4,000 #COVID hospitalizations for which they provide detailed age data, 29 were in people under 18. That's not deaths or ICU visits - that's hospitalizations. The closing of the schools is nearly criminal at this point.

What's a little CPR between friends? Hey, the doctors told her it was only for a "brief moment"!

Btw, she's 27 and apparently healthy, so her odds of dying from the ro are ~zero, give or take.

COVID-19 vaccine

By Fallon Hewitt Spectator Reporter
Sat., Jan. 2, 2021 4 min. read

Article was updated 2 days ago

When Deborah Tilli got the call last week telling her she'd be one of the first long-term-care workers in Hamilton vaccinated for COVID-19, she felt a mix of emotions.

A part of her was nervous, a part excited.

doctors told her she had suffered seizures and for a "brief moment," she needed CPR.

Still feeling some brain fog, Tilli said she doesn't remember much of the reaction but can recollect the moments where she accepted what was happening and that there could be "consequences."

"I kind of just lost hope for that period of time," she said.

When reached by The Spectator, Hamilton public health declined to comment "on an individual's personal health" or a "specific individual's

And this Pennsylvania nursing home is offering a straight-up bribe of $750 for its employees to get the vaccine - paid for with federal CARES Act money.

Must be going on everywhere - why would a nursing home in PA and a hospital in TX be the only places?

Gracedale staff to be offered $750 to get COVID-19 vaccine

Jeff Ward Dec 17, 2020 Updated Dec 29, 2020

That could cost as much as $490,000 if all 650 employees get the shot. The payment is an incentive. County Executive Lamont McClure said employees cannot be required to get the shots.

"Lives and livelihoods will be saved by a robust vaccination program," McClure said.

He said the county will use federal CARES Act money to pay the incentive. The county received $27.6 million from the federal government for pandemic relief. It kept some and distributed the rest to nonprofit groups, small businesses, schools and local

How can it be the British Mutation if it's not the Chinese Coronavirus?

Asking for a friend at the Wuhan lab that FOR SURE didn't accidentally leak the virus.

My genius thought: the lab should change its name to "bats." That way, we'll always know the virus came from bats.

This physician's declaration that more vaccine side effects are "a good thing" is a three-word encapsulation of the way public health has flushed what's left of its credibility down the toilet with this rollout.

Dr. Taison Bell @TaisonBell
Dose number 2 of the @pfizer #CovidVaccine is today. Side effects are more likely after this dose (it's a good thing!) so I'll keep you posted. Our focus needs to be fixing manufacturing/distribution issues and to making equitable distribution a priority.

Hey, @AlbertBourla, how about a 20,000-person vaccine clinical trial in people 75 and over? Anyone? We could call it SILVER SPEED, cool name. (I'm sure your marketing guys could do better.)

Added bonus, we might get meaningful data on mortality or hospitalizations or whatevs

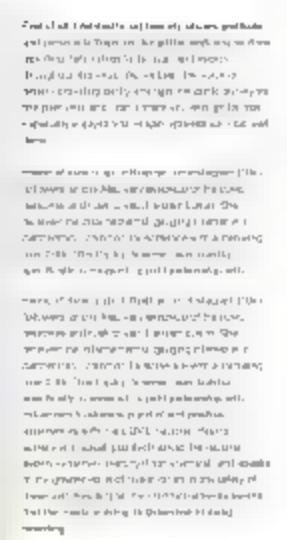
Hey, folks, two questions:

Do you have lots of followers on @instagram?
And do you like money?

Lucky you! @mainstreet one - a "progressive" social media targeting company - will give you some to talk about how great vaccines are!



Care to comment on who's funding this, MS One?

My name is Paty Fernandez and I'm a digital relational organizer with Main Street One. I'm reaching out to share a paid partnership opportunity to share your voice about what the COVID vaccine means to you

We're looking for Maine-based social media users to voice their support for a vaccination against COVID. We would have you respond to the following questions in the form of a social media post (Instagram, Facebook, TikTok, etc):

- Can you use a personal story to explain why you're blocking out misinformation around the COVID vaccine and prioritizing the health of your community? Why are you confident that vaccines are both safe AND effective?

-Why is vaccination an individual responsibility

Try to stop being partisan for about half a second. Do you let drug reps in your office? Because this is worse. Offering people with large audiences money to recite semi-scripted narratives (the email makes clear what the "influencer" is expected to say). Are you okay with that?

Again @cdcgov isn't being honest about what its own data say. When it reports #Covid vaccine "allergic reactions are occurring at a rate of 11.1 per 1 million" it is only counting reports that mention "anaphylaxis" - not other causes, like 200 bpm heart rates or 105-degree fever.

U.S. officials report more severe allergic reactions to COVID-19 vaccines

Maria Yodina and Julie Steenhuysen

Wednesday it is carefully monitoring allergic reactions to the coronavirus vaccines from Pfizer Inc and Moderna Inc and urged individuals who had a serious reaction not to get the second dose.

In a conference call with reporters, the U.S. public health agency said allergic reactions are occurring at a rate of 11.1 per 1 million vaccinations. That compared with the vaccines, in which such reactions occur at a rate of 1.3 per 1 million shots.

> He was a very healthy 56 year old, loved by everyone in the community delivered hundreds of healthy babies and worked tireless through the pandemic.
> He was vaccinated with the Pfizer vaccine at MSMC on December 18, days later he saw a strong set of petechiae on his feet and hands which made him seek attention at the emergency room at MSMC. The CBC that was done at his arrival showed his platelet count to be 0 (A normal platelet count ranges from 150,000 to 450,000 platelets per microliter of blood.) he was admitted in the ICU with a diagnosis of acute ITP caused by a reaction to the COVID vaccine. A team of expert doctors tried for 2 weeks to raise his platelet count to no avail. Experts from all over the country were involved in his care. No matter what they did, the platelets count refused to go up. He was conscious and energetic through the whole process but 2 days before a last resort surgery, he got a hemorrhagic stroke caused by the lack of platelets that took his life in a matter of minutes.
> He was a pro vaccine advocate that is why he got it himself.

Idiocy upon idiocy. The only logical final act here is for @realdonaldtrump to tell the protest-rioters to stand down and for them to say he's now an agent of the deep state and refuse. Meanwhile the media is pretending that a couple of hundred nitwits are an existential threat.

Can anyone explain why @realDonaldTrump won't tell these people to leave the Capitol, aside from his usual weakness and unwillingness ever to admit mistakes? This is just short of the Secret Service having to drag him out of the White House on Jan. 20. Does he think they won't?

Make no mistake: Trump is now essentially alone. Maybe his family is still with him, I don't know.

This may be the only really dangerous moment. I think he is too weak to do much but whine on Twitter, and who would follow his orders anyway? But his impulses are now unchecked.

Good morning. @fairfieldU - 6,000 students - is going to require random #SARSCoV2 testing for students, including some who live off-campus. Does HIPAA even allow this invasion of privacy? Imagine if they tried this for STis (which are probably more dangerous in this age range).

Dear Students:

As Fairfield University plans to Bring its Stags Home for the fall 2020 semester, a safe return to campus life is our most important priority. We want to make sure our community members have all the information they need to maintain the vibrancy of our campus life but do so as safety as possible.

Staying Safe: In order to keep our community safe, there will be several new requirements and expectations within our community.

- Testing and Contact Tracing. There will be statu
required COVID-19 testing of all residential students to their return and select off campus populations. There will also be random weekly testing of up to 10% of the residential students and select off campus populations throughout the semester. Specific details regarding testing will be community members. Masks must be worn at all times in public, including classrooms, when around other people.
Individuals without masks will be asked to leave classes or dining halls, etc. Once a community member arrives at private space – a residence hall bedroom, a private office, or while eating – masks may be removed

Campus Preparations:

Fairfield University's top-tier department is reviewing all offices, classrooms, housing spaces, dining facilities, and multi-purpose spaces throughout campus to determine the physical adjustments necessary to ensure all state mandated social distancing expectations. We will be engaging in more frequent and thorough cleaning
protocols, paying particular attention to high-touch areas
such as door handles

Looks like no more than half of eligible health-care and front-line workers, possibly fewer, are agreeing to take the mRNA vaccines. Hard to see those numbers rising when the second dose side-effects start hitting. And why would the general population be any higher?

I believe @usatoday is the only national US outlet to report on the post-vaccine death. Not that @nytimes etc are hiding it - they're just busy!

BTW: saying the doctor died "weeks" after getting dosed is deeply misleading. He was hospitalized within days.

This is yet another example of the way reporters are showing a double standard in describing potential vaccine risks and deaths; when someone dies after a long stay on a ventilator, we don't say he contracted #Covid six months before he died to try to underplay the connection.

2/ Presumably these are certificate matching deaths, but how are states or @CDCgov matching when no Covid tests existed then? Are they checking stored blood samples?

In any case, these deaths offer more proof #sarscov2 was circulating in the US well before anyone knew about it.

So three debacles on the cards so far: high incidence of severe side effects, possibility these vaccines generate mainly short-lived, antibody-based responses rather than long-lived T cell responses, likelihood Spike protein-only vaccines will drive emergence of mutant variants.

Totally wrong (on the vaccine side). This is what happens when a blue-check parrots press releases and doesn't check underlying data. That @cdcgov figure doesn't cover reactions, it covers one small subcategory of reported reactions (many reactions may not be reported at all).

BTW: I am really not sure what @amazon is doing with Part 3 at this point. The ebook is for sale again, but the paperback remains in limbo (the paperback was rejected first this afternoon).

I assume this is just a technical delay at this point, but who knows?

These deaths mainly appear to be nursing home residents. However several occurred almost immediately following administration. And in one case the report came from a family member who says “the treating hospital did not acknowledge this.”

| My grandmother died a few hours after receiving the moderna covid vaccine booster 1. While I don?t expect that the events are related, the treating hospital did not acknowledge this and I wanted to be sure a report was made. |

From a nurse at a pediatric clinic:

AA mail.google.com

Primary

I worked in a pediatric outpatient clinic, and our physician owner decided that all staff were required to get the Covid vaccine in order to remain employed. I resigned. This is a physician who, despite the overwhelming proportion of newborns and babies we care for, has never required influenza vaccines, nor proof of any other vaccines. Requiring us to submit to this new type of vaccine for a disease that isn't a threat to nearly any of our patients is beyond belief. I am 49 years old and felt my risk was minimal if I contract Covid-19. I'm very fortunate to not have to work, but this is very unfair to health care workers put in this position

Data are neither bad nor good. People are dying following vaccinations. That's a fact. It doesn't mean the vaccinations caused the deaths - though under our rules for counting [illegible] deaths, all these deaths would be attributed to Covid had they occurred following infection...

There would be no "correlation is not causation" or "how can you be sure." ALL these deaths would be called #Covid. Period.

It's not the flu (vaccine), bro.

The blue lines show reported adverse events per million for the influenza vaccine in 2019-2020, 180MM doses. The red lines the #Covid vaccine to Dec. 31, 4MM doses. Adverse events from @cdcgov VAERS.

The gap is shocking large.

1/ For the last year, Ireland has had among the hardest #Covid restrictions anywhere. On Dec. 22, it tightened them again - banning all travel between counties, restaurant dining, and on Jan. 1 all home visits (!)

Since then cases have risen 10-fold, a truly parabolic curve...

And for now, this is mostly a casedemic - deaths and ICU admits are below the spring peak even though positive tests are much higher. But that probably will not last.

Just a reminder to my friends on the markets:

In 11 days Team Apocalypse takes full control of the federal government.

This means

A) Lots of new business-destroying rules, possibly including more lockdowns (especially with fears of the British variant growing)...

B) Followed by another huge round of fiscal and monetary stimulus, aka magic bean printing. All of you LOOOVED the magic beans last year. No one cares about inflation anymore. It doesn't exist except for asset prices, whooopie!

One day that's gonna change. And when it does...

2/ The reason I ask: many of the post-vaccine deaths occurred VERY shortly after administration - it seems cruel and unnecessary and possibly unethical to vaccinate people on their deathbeds. On the other hand if those residents are exempt, the death numbers are more worrisome.

BTW: I am really not sure what @amazon is doing with Part 3 at this point. The ebook is for sale again, but the paperback remains in limbo (the paperback was rejected first this afternoon).

I assume this is just a technical delay at this point, but who knows?

Breaking news: @andrewrsorkin does not know how the First Amendment works. Of course it allows you to stand on the corner and call for a "lawless action." Its very narrow exemptions cover specific threats of violence (aka true threats) as well as criminal conduct like fraud.

> Andrew Ross Sorkin @andrewrsorkin
> The First Amendment does not require printers to print every newspaper, cable services to carry every channel, book publishers to publish every book. It protects your right to stand on the corner + say what you want, assuming you're not calling for a lawless action. #parler

It's melancholy truth, but the democratic impulse behind social media—that anyone anywhere should be able to publish nearly anything; and that politicians, companies, and governments should have immediate access to everyone's limbic systems—is incredibly naive.

2/ At the very least, shouldn't @cdcgov and the state be checking the timing of the vaccinations versus deaths? Very few nursing homes began vaccinations that early - this may be a signal event. At the least it is worth ruling out a connection.

I will hold off on a hard answer as I have not done substantial research into the others, but my sense is yes. Live attenuated or dead viruses have used in vaccines for many years. And even if the mRNA technology works we should all worry about the lack of long-term safety data.

DNA vaccines are extremely safe, but have had a hard time being efficacious, up until [redacted] added electroporation. They are now safe, effective, and are in p2/3 trials for covid. Of Moderna's p2 4 primary endpoints, 3 were for safety. Isn't safety decided in p1????

A nursing home in upstate New York is having a massive #Covid outbreak that has killed 24 residents, about 10%, including 11 since Jan. 6.

What's striking: the outbreak coincides with an aggressive vaccination program - 80% of residents were vaccinated beginning Dec. 22.

This real-world evidence seems clear: a single dose of the @pfizer vaccine won't protect the elderly, who have weaker immune responses. At a single nursing home, a 90-year-old died of #Covid 18 days after receiving the vaccine. Many others were infected.

It's in the FDA briefing documents, see tables 19 and 20 of the @moderna_tx book, for example (16.5% grade 3/4 systemic adverse reactions in all participants, 11.8% in people over 65.)

They still had high levels, just not as high.

But as the old saw goes, once is happenstance, twice is coincidence, three times is enemy action.

And I'd feel much better about our odds of catching anything serious quickly if both the media or @cdcgov weren't completely desperate to push this rollout.

You don't think? Vaccinations accelerated dramatically from Dec. 27 through Jan. 4 or so, which would be in the 1 week bucket, I think. Plus SOME drop in the rate of infections should occure week over week even if one dose is only modestly effective.

We will know soon enough.

Another fascinating point on other @moderna_tx mRNA vaccines that reached P1 testing - though the datasets are small and incomplete, they show far FEWER side effects (per subject) than the Covid vaccine. Which suggests Moderna went for topline efficacy over safety this time...

Who under 50 (in decent health) is going to get vaccinated if it doesn't even guarantee a plane ride? I mean, I don't favor requiring vaccinations for air travel, but the reason the airlines are giving is the stupidest one. (Unless it's just an excuse to avoid the issue.)

Fun fact from the @cdcgpv surveillance data: of 4,000 #COVID hospitalizations for which they provide detailed age data, 29 were in people under 18. That's not deaths or ICU visits - that's hospitalizations. The closing of the schools is nearly criminal at this point.

Keep in mind that overall hospital occupancy rates suggest that #Covid hospitalizations have a ton of air in them and that many are "with Covid" and not "from Covid." Otherwise in places like Arizona the hospitals truly would be overrun, instead of almost full.

BIG news: Citing post-vaccination deaths, Norway now says “very frail” people should NOT receive the #Covid vaccine.

Norway reports 23 post-vaccine deaths (out of only 25,000 shots). After examining 13, it says “side effects from the mRNA vaccines... may have led to deaths.”

So we are stuck with post-marketing surveillance rather than rigorously collected clinical trial information. But it gets worse, because both regulators and the media are now predisposed to try to explain away rather than examine any troubling facts that come up.

Meanwhile the insanity at universities continues. This @uva employee quit after being forced to have twice-weekly #Covid testing. “The despair and hopelessness are becoming overwhelming.”

> I am a UVA employee in academic research. I do not work in the hospital and have no patient contact. We are being forced to get tested for COVID twice a week, even in the absence of symptoms. Some of my coworkers have even been told to come in for three tests in a week due to “insufficient” samples. Hospital employees are exempt from this requirement.
> Most of my coworkers are surprisingly upset about it. Some have expressed concern about being coerced into undergoing a medical test and the associated consent/privacy issues. BTW: I am really not sure what @amazon is doing with Part 3 at this point. The ebook is for sale again, but the paperback remains in limbo (the paperback was rejected first this afternoon).

I assume this is just a technical delay at this point, but who knows?

How it's going

A criminal indictment suggests the crazy conspiracy theories that left-wing activists incited the Capitol riot are true in at least one case.

The indictment comes from that noted QAnon hotbed the FBI.

Chew on that.
